FOREWORD

Cleary College is now assuming such proportions that it seems fitting, and in keeping with the spirit and progress of the institution, that a publication be issued monthly instead of occasionally, as heretofore, with a view to better acquainting the public with the superior advan-students whose names appear on our list and to former students whose addresses are known to us and to other friends who may be interested.

THE COLLEGE

The attendance is larger now perhaps than it has ever been before at this season of the year and the indications are tages of the College and keeping in closer touch with its vast army of former students and its friends generally.

We cannot of course, in the brief space of this paper, print all the news of the College, but we hope to make the Journal of interest to all and to increase its size as conditions warrant.

We shall mail the Journal to prospective that the January enrollment will be a recordbreaker.

If young men and women could but realize it, how much better it would be for them to attend a school that stands for the best there is in manhood and womanhood; for the best there is in commercial education. Cleary College stands for both of these. It not only lays the foundation, but it completes the structure and starts its students aright in life.

While it is not the policy of the College to close for the holidays, yet the class work will suspend from December 23 to January 3, thus giving all who wish to spend the holidays at home an opportunity to do so.

Almost without exception, every person visiting the College remarks, "What a splendid class of students you have and what splendid work they seem to be doing."

Yes, it is these two elements, the quality of its students and the quality of its work, that has made Cleary College what it is and that has given it the standing it enjoys. It is pre-eminently a business training school.

Every student coming to Cleary College for business (and we want no others), for an education, for the making of a future for himself or herself, may be absolutely sure of succeeding. It makes no difference what a person's education is at time of coming here, he will find work and classes suited to his wants; he will be given exactly what he needs and advanced according to his ability, and when he graduates he will be assisted to a good position if he desires one.

Scarcely a day passes that we do not receive calls for help, and at high salaries too. We could place three or four times as many as it is possible for us to get ready, and we can usually place students where they wish to go if they have a preference.

The Wednesday afternoon lectures by prominent business and professional men are highly profitable and greatly enjoyed by the student body.

Three debating societies, under the direction of Mr. Walker, are now well under way. Any student who wishes is admitted to these societies, but no person is obliged to join.

As a result of the splendid training of Coach Sherzer, the efficient management of Frank Coates and the uniform interest manifested in the practice by the boys, themselves, the football team has closed a most successful season, having lost only one game.

New classes will be organized in all subjects January 3, hence this would be an especially good time for new students to enroll. But students are admitted any week day throughout the year.

Cleary College prepares for Business, for Commercial Teaching and for Civil Service, and students enrolling for any of these lines of employment may be absolutely sure of succeeding if they do their part.

The twenty-sixth commencement of Cleary College, which took place Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 4, 5 and 6, was, in many respects, the most successful and enjoyable yet held. A large number of former students, many fifteen to twenty years back, were present.

+

The fact of your being backward should not stand in the way of your coming here to school or delay you a minute. Regardless of what your advantages have been, you will find our work and classes so arranged as to enable you to advance without hindrance or embarrassment.

+

Are you aware of the fact that there is no education that will bring you success so quickly, or serve you so well through life, as a business education?

Are you also aware that there is no line of work you can take up that will mean so much to you in future life, from a financial point of view, or pay you so well from the beginning, as a commercial line?

The work of our school is so arranged as to accommodate alike the college graduate, the high school graduate, and those who have had little or no advantages. The latter will, of course, require a longer time than the former, but all who do their part well will succeed.

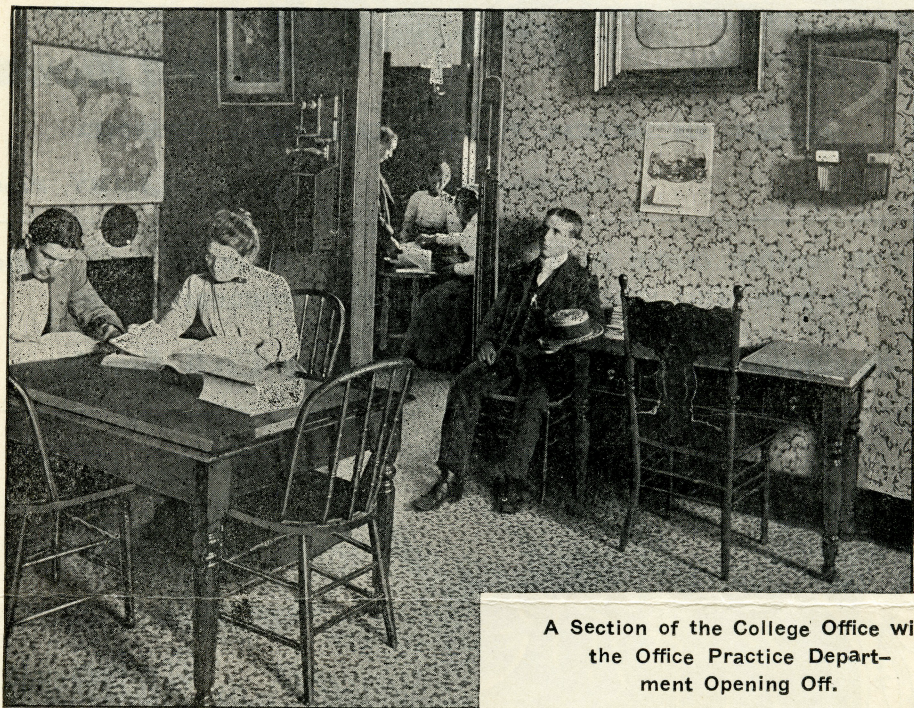

SOCIAL

On Thanksgiving evening the students met informally at the College and spent two hours most pleasantly.

An informal reception was given the students of the College Friday evening, December 9.

Mrs. Cleary gave an afternoon reception to the ladies of the College at her home Saturday, December 17.

Saturday evening, December 3, the mem-

The business world of today offers more substantial encouragement to young men and women than has ever been offered them before. There is no reason why a young man or woman entering upon the active duties of this busy and progressive life with a right preparation and a strong determination to succeed, should not meet with a full measure of success.

bers of the football team were entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cleary.

Business men are coming to realize the advantage of employing help who not only understand bookkeeping and stenography, but who have a practical knowledge of these subjects and a broad general preparation for business as well.
